5 million people worldwide suffer from IBD (Inflammatory Bowel Disease) a chronic condition associated with cumulative damage and disability.

Crohn's and Ulcerative Colitis – the two main forms of IBD – are some of the least known autoimmune diseases despite the physical, mental and socioeconomic burdens associated. Together we can change this.

20 years ago, Barcelona elevated the standards of Olympic games. Join us this February 15th to help elevate the disease burden and new treatment standards understanding with EFCCA, a world class IBD patient federation representing 27 European countries and ECCO, a leading medical association with 31 country members.
